Put Up by Unions.

The money reportedly is being put up by several politically-active unions, and is being distributed through key Democratic and Republican leaders.

Theodore J. Fischer, Republican Committeeman of the Pirst ward, told the Post-Dispatch today he has received money from labor's Committee on Political Education to hire precinct workers, to help bring out a vote for the COPE-politician's slate of candidates next Tuesday.

He said the payment amounted to $6 a precinct, and the Republican ward organization was expected to put up some of its own money too. There are 30 precincts in the First ward, so the union payment amounted to $180.

If there really are people who have fundamental objections to federal aid, they'd better keep their children home from school tomorrow because about 7 cents of every lunch served in the cafeteria is a federal handout. generosity originates at the local dairy?

We badly need expanded hospital facilities in this county; yet some people rear back in horror from acrepting Hill-Burton aid though an adjoining county has made good use of it recently and already has met its needs in this area. Does someone really fear that President Eisenhower will dispatch his personal physician to take over Boone County Hospital if we accept federal aid?

Last fall we voted to build an inper loop of highway through our slum area which happens also to be our segregated area. The state and federal governments will pay for acquiring the right of way; eventually we'll repay half this sum, but the other half and the construction posts will be an outright handout.

Why?

Tell me, sir, why did Pat Nixon have to put up with that cloth coat then Dick's friend and campaign manager had this friend who had all those good Government turs: GEORGE CHERNET.

A Spaniard's Thanks

Your editorial, "Under Franco's fleel," was magnificent. I have looked for a newspaper that was willing to present the facts about the pranish situation and I have found speak as one of the many hunlreds of thousands of Spaniards who tefused to yield their democratic principles to those of totalitarianism n the horrible years of 1936-39, and who by so refusing relinquished their tomes and possessions after endurage bitter struggles, in vain—all for the ideals of freedom.

the ideals of freedom.

It is encouraging and gratifying to mow that the Post-Dispatch has not ost sight of past injustice, realistically admits the failure to correct it, and foresees its political implications. Your editorial is fully worthy of the words in your platform: "Never the afraid to attack wrong."

PEDRO CUATRACASAS,

He Was Not Thrown Out

After reading his Administration's rules of influence peddling, President Eisenhower told reporters that Murray M. Chotiner did not violate those rules.

One rule is that anybody claiming political or personal influence in government affairs should be "thrown out." Mr. Chotiner, who was Vice President Nixon's campaign manager, visited the White House but was not thrown out.

In the cases which have so far come to light, Mr. Chotiner appears to have had little success in influencing government affairs. One client was convicted of embezzlement and two airlines lost their cases before the CAB. But there is no question that he used his position as a friend and political manager of the Vice President for personal purposes, and did so without incurring any of the righteous wrath that this Administration professes to reserve for such incidents. In some other respects the Chotiner case suggests interesting parallels with the case of William M. Boyle Jr. five years ago. The Boyle case erupted against the Truman Administration and was just the kind of "mess" which the Eisenhower Administration promised to clean up.

William Boyle became Democratic national chairman in late 1949. (Mr. Chotiner, as noted, was the Nixon campaign manager and a power in California Republican circles.)

Early in 1949, before he went on the Democratic party payroll, Mr. Boyle was retained as an attorney by the American Lithofold Co. of Louis which was interested in getting Government loan. (Mr. Chotiner has reported that he was retained by Herman Kravitz, a garment dealer involved in federal embezzlement charges, and was also an attorney for two airlines with cases pending before the Civil Aeronautics Board.)

Mr. Boyle received $8000 in fees from American Lithofold, whose president said Boyle did "practically nothing." (Mr. Chotiner received $6000 from Kravitz for doing practically nothing, After Mr. Boyle became Democratic chairman he telephoned a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation three times about RFC loan matters, urging consideration. (Mr. Chotiner called on two presidential assistants at the White House and said they made telephone calls from their offices about CAB cases in which Chotiner

Mr. Boyle depied he threw his political weight around in the Lithofold or other cases. (Mr. Chotiner testified that he never used the name of Vice President Nixon or other political influ ence in behalf of clients.)

At the time neither Mr. Boyle nor the RFC official nor former President Truman considered that Boyle had done anything improper. (Neither Mr. Chotiner nor White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty nor President Eisenhower considers that Chotiner did anything improper.)

In the end American Lithofold got a $565,000 RFC loan which had been rejected three times before Mr. Boyle took an interest in the matter. Mr. Chotiner's clients, so far as is now known, did not do so well. But the Boyle case aroused great indignation in Republican circles. One of the most indignant Republicans of all was Vice President Nixon.

If such an approach to the Government was wrong in 1949, why is it not equally improper

Yet Mr. Chotiner found the White House doors open. He was not "thrown out" and nobody who helped to lead the Republican crusade against impropriety now seems to understand why he should have been.

Quotes on Quoting

What works of literature are most often quoted by British and American authors? Almost anyone would answer correctly the Bible, first, and Shakespeare, second-but what about third? That's Milton, followed, in order, by Wordsworth, Tennyson, Pope and Shelley. And what is the most-quoted book of the Bible, the mostquoted play of Shakespeare? Genesis and Interesting questions, with sometimes surprising answers. But here is an interesting question with an answer more surprising still. Whence comes all this scholarly knowledge about the frequency of quotation? Why, from the Kenkyusha Dictionary of English Quotations, published in Tokyo by the Kenkyusha Press.

And why not from the Oxford or Yale University Press? Is there more curiosity in Tokyo about what English-language writers are up to than there is in London or New Haven? That query, we fear, must remain unanswered pending a Dictionary of Anglo-American Interest in English-Wielding Authors, to be published we dare not venture where

Cheap at the Price

If the average yearly cost to a motorist for the proposed federal highway program is only $8.83, as the Bureau of Public Roads predicts, not many citizens will think it exorbitant. A mo torist would save more than that in gasoline and wear and tear if he had good roads. Engineering studies show that the difference in cost of gasoline between driving in heavy traffic and on an open highway comes to more than 2 cents a mile. The House bill proposes highways which will help to save that 2 cents in many places, In fact, the interstate system would be as good as toll roads, but far less costly for motorists.

Disagreement Has Its Worth

Had not American labor been called on to play so considerable a part in the cold war, the and Walter Reuther, the top men in the AFL CIO, might be dismissed as a strictly private disagreement. But as things are, it has made beadlines almost all over the world.

On last Dec. 15 Mr. Meany said in a speech that Prime Minister Nehru of India and President Tito of Yugoslavia "are aides and allies (of Communist nations) in fact and effect, if not in diplomatic verbiage." Mr. Meany is entitled to his opinion even if it is not shared, at least regarding Mr. Nehru, by such informed observers as our former ambassador. Chester Bowles, and President Grayson Kirk of Columbia University who recently visited India. When the head of another government fails to agree on every point with United States policy, he does not automatically become a Communist

This obviously is also the opinion of Mr. euther. He said some friendly things about India in a Voice of America broadcast and repeated them during his recent tour of that country, a tour during which he made many

Mr. Reuther also is entitled to his opinion but Mr. Meany made a big issue of it before the executive council of the merged labor organizations. Some council members were displeased because they had assembled to consider problems raised by the Teamsters' union and the expelled International Longshoremen's Association rather than to hear an argument about interna-tional politics which they have no authority to settle

There are some who regret the affair as a disservice to American diplomacy, but we can not see it as such. It is, of course, desirable that we should display understanding of the motives of other peoples. But this conflict of views may be even more valuable as an object lesson in freedom of speech, an essential ingredient of that democracy which we recommend so highly to newly constituted nations

Secretary Wilson vs. Gen. LeMay

For several years it was the giant B-36, with its ability to go almost anywhere in the world and return, that was looked on as the big deterrent to any possible aggressor. Now the 300 B-36s are obsolescent and are being slowly replaced by the all-jet B-52. It is that slow rate of replacement which has been featured in some of the charges that Secretary of Defense Wilson has put budget considerations too far ahead of national defense.

Secretary Wilson has stoutly asserted on all occasions that his entire defense program was all right only to be forced to change his tune on guided and ballistic missiles and on the big bombers. Gen. Curtis LeMay has for eight years been the head of the Strategic Air Command. He certainly is, as Secretary Wilson called him, a "dedicated specialist." He is the man who would have to send the big bombers into action if this nation were ever attacked by some reckless

Yet, after Gen. LeMay disclosed to the Senate air power inquiry just how far our big bomber production rate was behind that of Soviet Russia, Secretary Wilson replied with the remark that it was impossible to meet all the desires of all the "dedicated specialists." President Eisenhower had a somewhat better reply when he told his press conference that it was not uncommon for "hot" airplanes just going into production to run into troubles that delayed them. Still, for 31 out of 78 to be rejected is a startling percentage—especially after Secretary Wilson had thrown up his smoke screen while still smarting under the criticism of such Senators as Symington of Missouri and Jackson of Washington,

President Eisenhower points to the smaller and shorter-ranged B-47s which are based in this country and abroad. But the B-47s in this country have to depend on tankers to fuel them for distant operations. Critics have pointed out we are short in tankers, that we lack a long-distance tanker and that tankers are highly vulnerable to attack. And bases abroad are dependent on the whims of the country concerned, as is apparent in the North African situation.

The President points out that there is much testimony yet to be heard and nothing has been said about the United States Navy. And he says Washington naturally has not tried to match Moscow in numbers of ground troops. That brings in the thought of the Soviet navy. According to our own admirals, the Russians have more than 400 submarines and that is more than twice the number we have.

There is indeed a lot of important testimony still to be heard. Thus far it has at least cut through Secretary Wilson's smoke screen. It should go on until the nation knows where it stands in its ability to deter any would-be ag-

Help From Jefferson City

The bipartisan Missouri State Highway Commission has earned an appreciative round of applause from all the citizens of St. Louis and St. Louis county. The Commission has pledged $255,000 to finance the costly origin-and-destination phase of the metropolitan area's pending transportation survey.

This means that the city and the county will have to put up only $140,000 each to cover the remainder of the overall study. Included will be such important fact-gathering projects as a land use and population density studies, a review of the adequacy and efficiency of existing transit facilities and the feasibility of some form of rapid transit.

The overall survey offers the only visible hope of providing definitive answers to the city-county transit problem. The Highway Commission's financial help is a happy windfall and a fine example of co-operation from the state level of government. All that is necessary now is for city and county to provide their share of the cost and get the show on the road.

One Determined Man

The appointment of Chester E. Stovall as executive secretary gives the St. Louis Council on Human Relations one of its infrequent ap pearances in the news columns. The Council does not seek publicity. In the field of human relations, quiet patient work is the most effective. To this work Mr. Stovall brings determination and devotion to better citizenship. He has been a leader in the Urban League and in welfare organizations whose interests range far across any color lines. His appointment should inform the city that Mayor Tucker intends to keep the Council to its important community

How Not to Spoil a Ballot

Sf. Louisans will have to exercise more than a little care at the polls Tuesday to avoid spoiling their freeholder ballots. A person may vote for only 13 of the 45 candidates. If cross marks appear opposite the names of more than 13 the illot is thrown out, and none of the candidates gets a vote.

One way to avoid this pitfall, of course, is to take a sample ballot into the voting booth with ou, or perhaps the list of candidates supported by the Citizens' Committee and Mayor Tucker. A vote for all 13 candidates on the Citizens-Tucker ticket will make a perfect ballot and an effective ballot.

The Cancer Quack: How He Operates

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME

The Mirror Public Opinio

A few backwoods healers mean well but most phony practitioners simply exploit the masses, Duke University survey shows; tragedy is that people living in this day and age will fall for nostrums; fakers mulct the public of $10,000,000 annually.

Dr. Charles S. Cameron, Medical and Scientific Director of the American Cancer Society, in the Society's Quarterly Cancer News

Duke University, in the course of a cent investigation, compiled a list of quack cures for cancer. The tragedy not so much that quack practitioners will make them up as it is that people living in this day will buy them.

Ilving in this day will buy them.

Dr. Charles E. Horton of Duke, who reported on the survey before the International College of Surgeons recently, made it clear that they were not attacking the sincerity of all quacks: "In North Carolina we have been impressed with the genuine basic honesty of a few of the quack back."

genuine basic hon-esty of a few of the quack back-woods healers. It is their lack of edu-cation, not a desire to exploit the masses, that is the real cause of this to relatives and neighbors. They take no fees. What is more, they themselves believe implicitly in the efficacy of their "cures." That they are often successful is because the original silment. their "cures." That they are often successful is because the original ailment is frequently psychosomatic in nature. Thus they become, literally, faith healers.

But for every sincere one there are two charlatans. These are the get-rich-quick artists who make the fantastic, unproved claims. They work with various nostrums, potions and salves, and even electrical or supposedly radio-active gadgets. Each year they attract and treat thousands of persons.

Flirting With Death

They mulct the American public to the extent of some $10,000,000 annually. They cause false hope with its inevitable suffering afterward. They are responsible for many hundreds of needless deaths each year. Anyone with a cancer danger signal who wastes time with disreputable doctors or unlicensed practitioners is flirting with death.

There is nothing in your medicine binet, in fact nothing in any drugcabinet, in fact nothing in any drug-store that can cure cancer. The Amer-ican Cancer Society, which has spent more than $35,000,000 on research in the last 10 years, knows of no medicine, or pill, or ointment, or massage, or electric treatment that will cure a ma-lignant growth. The only realistic hope for any cancer victim is early detection, correct diagnosis and speedy treatment. Nothing except surgery and radiation has been found effective as a cure, and even with these it is the surgeon and not the knife, the radiologist and not the voltage, that gets the results. not the knife, the radiologist a the voltage, that gets the results

People who turn to quacks for treat-nent fall roughly into three categories. he hopeless—those who cannot be aved by proven treatment. The naive The hopeless—those who cannot be saved by proven treatment. The naive—who are taken in by glittering promises and empty claims. The uninformed—those people who have never learned that cancer can be successfully treated only by radiation and surgery.

Gadgets Impress Some

Many quacks turn to electrical and mechanical gadgets to impress their clients. Some California practitioners use a machine they call an ocilloclast. This awesome device achieves a diagnosis by placing the patient's signature in a slot. Dials are adjusted. Bells ring and gears clank. And another victim's savings are laid open.

It's convenient, too. The patient doesn't even have to be present; he can send his signature in by mail. One such "doctor" had no less than 200 suckers on his string. They were paying from $200 to $600 each for "cancer" and other treatments following "diagnosis" by this apparatus. Another sucker device is the so-called radionic machine. The quack sets several dials and pulls a switch. Out come sparks, followed by buzzings and clickings; then the dread "diag-nosis"

"FORWARD, CRUSADERS!"

Of 64 patients treated by quacks, 27 of 64 patients treated by quacks, 27 might have been saved if they had received medical attention in time. At least 10 of them did not have cancer at all. One woman had her nose totally destroyed by a paste supplied by a quack. One woman lost an ear.

Quack. One woman lost an ear.

One of the most aggressive "practitioners" claiming to "cure" patients by unorthodox methods is Harry M. Hoxsey, who has been making newspaper headlines since 1926. He first ran a so-called Hoxide Institute in Taylorville, Ill.; then another "clinic" in Dallas, Tex.; now one in Pennsylvania. vania.

Those Case Histories

Some of the clippings from a Tay-lorville newspaper in 1926 are illum-inating: "Hoxide Cancer Patient Dies"; "Death a Day Week's Record at the Hoxide"; "Another Hoxide Patient Dies of Pneumonia."

Dies of Pneumonia."

Where do the quacks get their "documented case histories." Investigations by the American Medical Associations by the American Medical Association show that the great percentage of those supposedly cured by quacks were incorrectly diagnosed by the quacks themselves; hence "cured" of something they never had.

Other, finding outbodes, registers

Others, finding orthodox radiation treatments slow, become panicky; then turn to quacks after they are already well advanced toward cure. Some apparent cures result when, for natural causes unknown, patients suddenly, but temporarily, improve.

Don't think you couldn't be fooled.

Don't think you couldn't be fooled. Quacks are master showmen. Trecent victims have included the of a leading educator, a wealthy indus-trial executive, a young child of a fa-mous artist, the daughter of an international figure.

Heartlessness of the Ouack

These quacks put up an astonishingly impressive front. They are, for the most part, respectable-looking, well-spoken men and women. Some have headquarters in handsome buildings surrounded by beautifully landscaped grounds. Others maintain humble-looking clinics, saving that they are number of the state of the stat

The quacks are heartless. If your name gets into a newspaper obituary because a relative died of cancer you are likely to receive a sympathetic letter telling you that your loved one could have been cured at Dr. So-and-So's clinic. You yourself are advised to hurry there at once for a check-up. Many people do just that.

How do the guacks get away with it?

Many people do just that.

How do the quacks get away with it? Of course, we can and do arrest the cancer quacks. But it's a cumbersome and tedious process—like cleaning out some foul Augean stable. Many of these quacks have been arrested a dozen times or more. But still they carry on. Often a clever attorney can find, a way out. Even when they are jailed, their partners on the outside continue to operate or others spring up by the dozens to take their places.

The German Question Marks RETURN TO POWER, by Alistair Horne, (Praeger, 415 pgs., $6.)

RETURN TO FOWER, by Alisteir Horne. (Presque, 445 pqs., 36)

Germany's return as a power in world affairs in the amazingly short time of 10 years after the end of devastating World War II was a consequence of the reversal of Allied policy toward Russia. The moving force behind the recovery and democratization of the Federal Republic and its alignment with the West has been Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who has unfalteringly fostered the ideal of an integrated Europe.

Much of the credit for the stability and success of the West German Government in the last five and a half years must go to the Allied High Commission, for what Alistair Horne describes as its "wise guidance in the early days, and later to the German people for the ability they have shown to choose a responsible government."

Mr. Horne, for two years the London

beopie for the ability they have shown to choose a responsible government."

Mr. Horne, for two years the London Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Bonn, has written this psychographic study of the former Nazi nation from a profound understanding of the problems and frustration facing the present West Germany. He uses Chancellor Adenauer's campaign to get the European Defense Community treaty ratified in the Bundestag and Bundesrat almost as a central theme of the book. Although other information on Germany is presented in an interesting and intelligible style, recapitulation of the Federal Republic's rise to its present key position in Europe would only be repeating what has been said by so many other historians and writers on international affairs.

The author's warning that the death

The author's warning that the death of EDC at the hands of the French and isappointment over the Geneva Condisappointment over the Geneva Conference might drive the Germans to seek reunification without the Allies' help has already proved somewhat prophetic, in that recently the Federal Republic announced it will approach Moscow directly in an effort to settle the East-West deadlock on German unity.

Moscow directly in an effort to settle the East-West deadlock on German unity.

Realizing that reunification is a primary aim of most Germans, Mr. Horne explains that "browbeating and cajolery, enticement and threats, camaraderie and brutality," form the Communist negotiating procedure.

The more benevolent treatment of the East Germans and relaxations of interzonal travel by the Communists, and at the same time the delays and disillusions of the last two years, all undoubtedly have left a mark on the West German estimation of the West. Concluding with the fact that Germany holds the balance of power in the cold war. Mr. Horne says: "The two big questions for the years that lie ahead are whether the German people will eventually fall for the Soviet blandishments—and whether the Western Allies will allow them to fall, by plan or default."

It is the story of her friend, Nila Magidoff, a Russian-born volcano who erupted in Louisville during World War II as a speaker for war relief for her former country. Her biographer likens her to a symphony orchestra (playing Tschaikowsky's 1812 Overture), a feast of beef Stroganoff, vodka, and honey cakes, a fireworks display on the Fourth of July, and a brilliant entertainment with slamming doors, and falls and moments of crushing tragedy.

It is the story of a brave and honest woman who has a love of life so intense it is flamboyant, an observant eye on American customs, a quick and irreverent tongue, and the simplicity of a peasant—or a tiger.

WOMEN GRANTED

Conference Overturns Tradition and Permits Them to Be Assigned to Churches.

> By JOHN T. STEWART Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch..

MINNEAPOLIS, May 5
The General Conference of the Methodist Church voted yesterday to grant full clergy rights to women, overturning a tradition which had lasted 170 years.
The women procedure set tion which had lasted 170 years.

The women preachers got even more than they asked for —and far more than they had expected. The majority report of the Committee on the Ministry asked for full clergy rights for "only unmarried women and widows." Its supporters would have been happy if it had squeaked through.

But this General Conference But this General Conference was in no mood for compromise. It swept aside all restrictions on ministerial privileges for women, including the distinction between the married and unmarried, and gave equal rights to women preachers by a vote of 389 to 297.

There are only 85 women delegates in this conference, and many of them were opposed to clergy rights for their sex; so the women's vote could not have carried the day. One angry

Then a compromise solution of the problem was proposed by a lawver-delegate from Cincinnati, Leonard D. Slutz's motion held no discrimination between married women preachers.

"A married woman is better to the suggestion of the suggestion of and a quarter at Churchill Downs another Kentucky Derby winner. Whatever the name is, that colt will take his place with Whirlaway and Twenty Grand, Citation and Count Fleet, War Admiral and Gallant Fox, Black Gold, Exterminator and all the others over the Derby's 82 years. It has been a big question this Derby week whether any in this field, from the favored Needles down to the most dubious contender, deserved to join such illustrious company.

But that's something for the hardboots or the racing experts to expound upon, for it doesn't really make any difference. One of these colts will be the Kentucky Derby winner and people will remember his name long after thousands of other horses have been forgotten.

Sometimes the way the race is run marks the greatness of a horse. Nobody forgets a race like Whirlaway's in 1941, and not only because he set the still existing record of 2:012-5. But whether the 1956 winner runs the race in a real good time of 2:03-something, or whether he comes up with a 2:05 or worse race, won't mean much. Time in horse racing depends on too many factors to use it as a singular reference point.

Needles, the big money winners a mong three-year-olds ($338,605), is the favorite in the probable odds. The Calumet Farm entry of Pintor Lea and Fabius is second choice and C. V. Whitney's Head Man and Career Boy come next.

Eddie Arcaro, shooting for his sixth win in 17 times at the post in this classic contest, will be up on Head Man and no doubt those in the tremendous crowd of nearly 100,000 at the track will back him well.

Arcaro, who reminded that much depends on racing luck, particularly in such a sizable field as this, is going to "take back" Head Man off the pace in this race and rate him, if he can, to save his strength for the final stretch effort.

He will have post position No. 5, and is in a favorable position or or this strategy. But anything could happen, Arcaro said, in a race like the Derby in which all horses are apt to be tiring near the finish. "A tiring horse may do anything, swerve or stop dead, and if that happens in front of your colt, it's just too bad," he said.

Class Didn't Tell.

Sometimes the best colt is beaten. Arcaro was up on Phalanx in 1947 and there was no doubt in his mind he had the best horse, he said. But at the wire it was Jet Pilot by a head despite Phalanx's closing rush. It's something to remember when you try to pick the winner of this Derby, after a winter and spring in which these have been some of the developments:

Fabius (the winner) beat Countermand, Head Man, Black Emperor, Invalidate and High King in the mile Derby Trial Tuesday.

Terrang (third) was in front of Ben A. Jones, Count Chic, and Come On Red in the six furlong Swaps Purse here last Saturday.

Dodger Bungles Help Cardinals To Seven Runs and 10-3 Victory

By Bob Broeg There's a saying in the National League that the Dodgers don't beat themselves. It's a well-merited tribute to Brooklyn's reliable and frequently remarkable defense. So this one today must come under the heading of man-bites-dog news as thoroughly as the look on the face of a kid caught with the face of a kid caught withis hand in the cookle jar at dinner time. And the Brooks beat themselves at Busch Stadium as surely as though they'd suddenly taken abnormal delight hitting one another over the head with pennant thick scrapbooks.

They had bein all right be-

They had help, all right, bea capital performance had General Manager that had General Manager Frank Lane glowing afterward in Manager Fred Hutchinson's clubhouse office. In particular, Rip Repulski, ribbing himself as "the forgotten man of the outfield," hammered a homer and threw out a man at the plate. Willard Schmidt, who'd thrown lollipops instead of fast balls too often this spring, fast balls too often this spring, had his blazer in a hard sixinning one-run effort. And ancient Ellis Kinder, appearing in the fifth of eight Redbird victories, nipped Brooklyn ambitions with one-hit ball the final three frames after young Lindy McDaniel had faltered.

Brooklyn Runglers

Brooklyn Bunglers. Yes, the Redbirds played handsomely, but, if you don't mind, it still primarily was a case of the Dodgers defeating themselves in the 10-3 ball game.

Brooklyn's bungling was concentrated in the sixth inning of a contest that at the time was a tense 1-1. Then with only four hits the Redbirds scored seven runs because the Dodgers contributed two errors, two walks and a wild pitch and a balk, both of which permitted home-club players to race across the plate.

Since it's a rare day or night in May or any month when the Brooks do themselves in, a replay might be appropriate:

Off Chuck Templeton, strapping young fast-firing Dodger southpaw, Stan Musial stroked

Pitcher Kept in After School; Third Baseman Takes Over Job And Hurls Mercy to 9 to 3 Win

By John J. Archibald

Here's one kind of pitching trouble that Cardinal Manager
Fred Hutchinson doesn't have to contend with: Just before Mercy High's Catholic Athletic Conference game with DuBourg got under way yesterday, Mercy Coach Bill Houston, of Missouri U. football fame, was informed that the pitcher he had planned advantages, as the St. Louis University baseball team faced a title-sized Missouri Valley Conference game with Bradley this afternoon. It was scheduled for Diamond No. 6 in Forest Park.

The Billikens must sweep the three-game series with Bradley to win the Eastern Division title without further ado. They began the project yesterday by winning a doubleheader, on the Forest Park diamond. The score was the same for both victories, 5 to 3.

The games had Bob Page in common, too. The stocky Billiken pitcher went the distance to win the first game, and did relief-pitcher duty in the second game. He relieved Harry of the seven-inning nightcap. Bill Wynn's home run, with Page on base, in the first game, was the day's major hit. The Bills word four runs in the fifth inning of the second game with Detroit make it necessary for the Bills to sweep the Bradley series, to be avoid complications.

Treadiey's is 6-and-2. Two postponed games with Detroit make it necessary for the Bills to sweep the Bradley series, to be avoid complications.

The percentage was with the Billikens, both in the league standings and in the home-field advantages, as the St. Louis University baseball team faced a title-sized Missouri Valley Conference game with Bradley this afternoon. It was scheduled to the Redbirds. Third Baseman Jim Beckmann, a senior, who had never hurled an inning of high school ball, volunteered to pitch until his errant teammate had served his sentence. In the first inning, Beckmann retired the side one-two-three, striking out two. An error and a walk marred the second inning, but Beckmann struck out two more. In the third inning, after two were out a pair of singles and a double steal brought DuBourg a run, but Beckmann fanned the clean-up man to end that uprising. And oit went.

both Roosevelt's runs coming on errors.

Bert Barth, who had pitched a state tournament victory over Sumner the day before, had to relieve Bob Miller in the seventh and retire the last batter. Barth had three hits, as did Shortstop Rich Krueger.

Vashon and Soldan both achieved their first victories in Public League play this season. Vashon to pped Washington Tech, 13 to 8, and Soldan scored twice in the last of the seventh to defeat Central, 6 to 5. Southwest defeated Hadley, 8 to 5. In the ABC League, John Burroughs scored a run in the last of the eighth on an error to trip Country Day, 6 to 5.

Support by Churches

Indorsement of the Citizens'
Committee slate by the Metropolitan Church Federation expolitan Church Federation executive board was announced yesterday by the Rev. O. Walter Wagner, executive director of the federation.

In a letter to ministers of 1000 churches, about 600 of which are in the city, Dr. Wagner asked that congregations be urged to vote for the citizens' slate and that sample ballots be given out at the churches tomorrow by Boy Scouts and church ushers.

"You must be sure that the men and women who will study the charter, revise or rewrite it be persons unfettered by political pressure and qualified to represent us," Dr. Wagner told the printerer.

nicipal government to ordinary citizens.

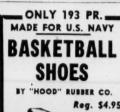

In response to a question by Edward C. Schafer, chairman of the Civic Activities Committee, program sponsor, the Mayor said he doubted that the new charter, in whatever form, would actually cut the cost of city government.

The real gain would be in better and more efficient service, he pointed out, adding that dollar reduction in any event would be difficult because of the constant public demand for expansion of city services.

3 Sources of Information.

Victor D. Brannon, executive director of the Governmental Research Institute, also on the panel, said he anticipated the freeholders would seek information from three general, categories of sources—individuals with specialized knowledge and experience, like officials of cities where new Ideas in government are being tried out; representatives of local civic, labor, business and other organizations, and finally and labor, business and other or-ganizations, and finally and most numerous, ordinary citi-zens, whose ideas should be as welcome as those of the experts. Brannon suggested that the

Unveiling Gas Detector

Masked figures emerging from smoke screen lend note of realism to demonstration of portable gas detector (foreground) developed by the Army Chemical Corps and the Radio Corporation of America. The device, long on the secret list, is so sensitive it can detect instantly even the deadly odorless and colorless chemical warfare agent known as "nerve" gas.

CARNIVAL FUN

A fraternity brother giving his all for the cause, Don Gerard of Sigma Chi is prepared for the inevitable while being maneuvered off log by Miss Debby Ward, 307 Jefferson road, Webster Groves, at the annual Thurtene carnival at Washington University last night. SALT LAKE TRESTLE ABLAZE

Smoke and flames are fanned by stiff wind which hampered efforts to control blaze on railroad trestle across Great Salt Lake in Utah yesterday. Fire, of undetermined cause, burned out 600-foot section of the wooden trestle which carries tracks of the Southern Pacific Railroad. Waves stirred up by the strong wind prevented use of fire barges and the blaze had a two-hour start on land-based fire equipment.

FERNDALE, Md., May 5 (AP)

A youth who said he handed his father a loaded pistol after the parent expressed a desire to kill himself was charged last night with second degree murder.

Daniel James Lawler, 21 wears old of nearby Garland as Communist Front.

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)

—A three-juduge federal court will step Monday into a tangled legal dispute over the right of the courts to delay or halt publication of congressional reports.

One judge has issued a temorated with a significant of the court of ports.

One judge has issued a temporary delaying order, another has set it aside, a three-judge appeals court has it under consideration, and a congressional ceed with the printing of the sideration, and a congressional committee has voted to ignore

Raymond Biattenberger to pro-ceed with the printing of the pamphlet and to Ignore "the processes of any court" in the matter. The committee con-tended the courts, under the Constitution's separation of powers, have no right to in-terfere with Congress. court action as unconstitutional.

The Methodist Federation for Social Action started the tangle with a complaint that a Senate publication, "A Handbook internal security subcommittee publication, "A Handbook for Americans," improperly called the federation "a religious Communist front."

United States District Judge Robert N. Wilkin ordered Thursday a delay until next Friday in publication of 75,000 additional copies of the pamplet, authorized by congressional resolution. He also suggested that a three-judge court be set up to consider further action. Wilkin is a retired Ohio jurist who sometimes helps out on the bench here. the Methodist Federation asked the United States Court of Appeals yesterday to reinstate the Wilkin order, contending Letts had no authority to set it aside. His appeal was heard by Chief Judge Henry W. Edgerton and Judges E. Barrett Prettyman and Charles Fahy. After a long conference in Edgerton's chambers, the judges let it be known the matter was "under advisement." Edgerton also announced Edgerton also announced through court attaches that the special three-judge court—a district court, technically, although two of its members will on the bench here.

Wilkin's order was counter-manded late that night by Judge F. Dickinson Letts. The action was disclosed in court records variants. records yesterday.

3.2 BEER LICENSE REVOKED BECAUSE OF SALE TO MINOR

Floyd Barnes, operator of a tavern at U. S. Highway 67 and New Jamestown road, St. Louis county, was fined $50 and his 3.2 beer license was perma-nently revoked yesterday by Magistrate Raymond I. Harris at Clayton.

The tavern operator pleaded guilty to a charge of sale of non-intoxicating liquor to a minor. Barnes was arrested April 26 and charged with selling beer to three youths, 17 to 20 years old.

20 years old.

Oliver Littleton, bartender at a tavern at 10004 Gravois road, Affton, was fined $200 by Magistrate Harris after he pleaded guilty of possession of liquor without a license. He was arrested last Monday by county police who reported they found four partly filled whisky bottles in the tavern, which has a license to sell only 3.2 beer.

MUCH ADJUSTMENT AHEAD UNDER NEW PROBATE CODE

Lawyers have seen only the beginning of the adjustment necessary to make the new Mis-souri probate code work, Pro-bate Judge David R. Hensley of St. Louis county said yes-terday. terday.

strictly on a friendship basis. Now he seems to be under the impression that I still like him, He phones all the time, asking to come over and tells his friends to tell me how much he likes me. Martha, he's a nice guy really, but if he's going to be like that, I'd rather not go to the prom with him. What should I do? RORY.

The fact that you are on "friendship" basis and not going steady, doesn't mean that you can't like him and enjoy his company. I can't understand why you could change your mind so completely about him so suddenly, because if you went steady with him you must have liked him pretty well. Even though he is just a friend, not a beau, can't you date him occasio ally? Of course, if he's someone you can't respect and like -and if he has some serious fault that made you break up with him-maybe he's not the one for you to be going with at all. But, having promised to go to the prom, I don't see how you can get out of it without being discourteous.

I WOULD LIKE TO KNOW what ends a friendship between two girls who have been pals for a long time. She is someone I thought I could trust and who would never be two-faced. Then for no reason at all she became very snobbish. I couldn't understand what I had done and asked her she said nothing. Please give me some advice on how to win her friendship back again.

A VERY UNHAPPY PERSON.

I can only suggest that you go to her once more and offer a sincere apology for whatever you might have done to offend or hurt her. Then, it will be up to her. If she refuses to discuss it with you or still wants to turn her back on you, you have no alternative but to accept it and find other friends who will be more loyal.

What makes a boy popular? Martha Carr's leaflet for teen-agers, "Masculine Popularity," will help answer that question. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Salesmanship

By Ruth Millett

FEW minutes ago I stopped in the middle of a column A to answer the door. A young door-to-door salesman, one of those brought in by the truckload to canvass a town, was selling magazine subscription. His opening remark was, wife can resist a "boyish His next remark was, "I am one of 50 young men being trained to meet the public." Then he men-tioned he was in a "con-trained him that no house-

RUTH MILLETT test" and so on and on. I didn't resent the young man. But like most housewives I did resent being treated like an imbecile. How long are we housewives going to be treated like halfwits by those who want to sell us something? How long is it going to take the high pressure boys who train these telephone and door-to-door salesmen to wake up to the fact that the housewife's time is just as valuable as the time of a business man? She certainly doesn't want any salesman wasting 20 minutes of her time being coy before he admits what he is trying to sell.

How long is it going to take them to figure out that the average housewife isn't a gullible fool but, instead, a practical shopper who just wants to know one thing from a salesman? And that one thing is: Are you selling anything I need or am interested in buying?"

The longer it takes a salesman to get around to answering that question, the more impatient his potential customer

No, I didn't take any subscriptions. But I might have walked up to the front door an honestly and with no waste of words, "I am selling magazine Would you be kind enough to look over my subscriptions. list and see if there is any magazine you want to renew or

On second thought, I would have been so startled by being treated in such a forthright manner I'm sure I would have subscribed to something just to show my appreciation.

At the Movies

OT BLOOD," at the ORPHEUM, is about modern gypsies in Los Angeles, but they have to make sure it's got color, so everyone wears as garish an out-fit as possible and breaks into song on the drop of a cue, lots of grinding of teeth, flashing of eyes, baring of shoulders, throwing of things through windows which passes as temperament. All the rest of the actors ham it up and unfortunately are seen in crystal clear depth in CinemaScope. But poor Jane, I am afraid, must take many, many more dramatic lessons before she can learn to be a ham, so she's sort of left out of things. Bull whips and fights with silver studded belts are introduced to try alleviate the general torpor, but it still is evident that what this needs is some hot blood. The co-feature cashes in on the rock 'n roll craze. Called "ROCK AROUND THE CLOCK," it depicts the troubles Johnny Johnston, as a band manager, has in selling Bill Haley's comets and rock 'n roll in general because of a jealous female who has the corner on the bookings. The story, in jive dialogue with no English subtitles, is just an excuse to bring on acts like Haley, Tony Martinez's band, the Platters, the Bellboys and Lisa Gaye but at least the loud music keeps you awake. I'm not a snob about rock 'n roll. The jazz style with the heavy beat and the insistence on a combination of African war chant and revival meeting fervor is cheerful and everyone seems to have fun, so when the clamor starts I just rock, and roll with the bunch.

Problem Is Running Out

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N.Y. WAS rereading the other evewAS rereading the other evening an article written for the New York Times magazine of February 7, 1954, by Chester Bowles. It was called "The Negro, Progress and Challenge" and in it Bowles brought out one of the basic factors in the solution of the racial problem in the United States.

racial problem in the United States.

On January 1, 1963, we will celebrate 100 years of emancipation of the Negro. In other words, we are very near the 100-year mark, and that is a long time—if we really mean to carry out Lincoln's emancipation proclamation — to correct the evils of slavery and prove to the world that we really do believe in equality of all human beings.

Of course, equality is conditioned by the gifts that God gave us, and all that human beings can do is to refrain from creating inequalities of opportunity which prevent people from rightfully reaching their full development.

WHITE PEOPLE do not attain the same conditions of either intellectual or material achievements, but they do not spend their lives battling manmade discrimination. We know that there is the opportunity to develop that which we have within us and that no one will turn against us because of our race, religion or color.

In this article, Bowles brought out that the future of the white peoples of the world well may hang on our ability to solve the racial problem in the United States and that time for this is running out. WHITE PEOPLE do not at-the United States and that time for this is running out.

One hundred years is a long time to wait. Our Negro citizens have been patient beyond belief. The question that so many of us have been asked over and over again, "Do you believe the Negro as capable of development as the white man?" should be answered once and for all with, "I do believe that, given the same opportunity with discrimination removed, the Negro is as capable of achieving any standard of success." success

GOD HAS NOT PUT any

GOD HAS NOT PUT any more limitations on the Negro than he has on the rest of us. But man-made circumstances perhaps have made it more difficult for him to develop his potentialities. These circumstances men can change.

The other question often asked us: "Would you like your daughter to marry a Negro?" Intermarriage of races does not of necessity follow the granting of equal opportunity, for marriage is purely a personal matter. But I think we must face the fact that, while people of the same color and race generally prefer to marry each other, there have been mixtures of races just as there have been mixtures of religions, and no one can either prevent them or make them successful this is one of those things time alone can resolve, with the individuals themselves making the decisions.

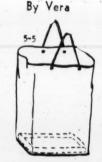

from serves making the decisions.

For the people of this country, the question is whether they can continue to exist without giving all citizens full equality before the law and equal dignity as human beings. We must make this decision and upon it depends our whole future and that of white peoples everywhere.

The Shape of Your Face

THERE isn't a woman in the world who is hopelessly unattractive. The secret is to learn how to make the most of yourself and to have the desire to be attractive. That means really knowing yourself. If you were asked, not many of you could accurately tell what shape face you have. And, yet this is fundamental information and the key to what make-up and hairdo you should use and what hat will be most becoming.

Mr. Masters

A33

North East 2♠ 2♠ 4♣ 4♠ Dbl. All Pass

A defender can try to form a mental picture of his partner's holding, based on the bidding and the looks of the dummy. Most defenders do think pretty hard in the later stages of a hand—after the chances of defeating the contract have almost disappeared. That is not good enough. The thinking should start at trick one.

In today's deal Mr. Champion made a fine co-operative play at the very first trick. Against the five spade contract of Mr. Masters opened his singleton heart and Mrs. Keen won with the ace in dummy.

the ace in dummy. Now, Mr. Champion had no-interest whatsoever in the heart suit. A lesser player might have played the deuce without thinkplayed the deuce without think-ing what difference it could make. But Mr. Champion thought along these lines: My partner and I bid diamonds and clubs. With admitted strength clubs. With admitted strength in those suits, why would partner choose to lead a heart, a suit in which the enemy undoubtedly holds the balance of power? The only logical answer was that the trey of hearts was a singleton.

Mr. Masters must have con-trol of the trump suit, with hopes of ruffing a heart return later.

It also occurred to Mr. Champion that when his partner did get in with his supposed spade winner, he would probably return a club. After all, Mr. Champion had bid nothing but clubs and he had never raised diamonds.

clubs and he had never raised diamonds.

Yet ne had the ace of diamonds and not the ace of clubs. In an effort to have his partner lead the higher of these two suits, he played his highest heart, the 10, at trick one.

This thoughful play resulted in a two-trick set. Mrs. Keen led a spade to her queen and Mr. Masters was in with the ace. He read the subtle message of the 10-of-hearts play by his partner. He returned a diamond and Mr. Champion won with the ace and led a heart. The ruff of the heart and another diamond winner completed the set.

Note that if Mr. Masters had led a club at trick three Mrs. Keen could have won, picked up the last triump and discarded both of dummy's diamonds on her long hearts—making six odd.

one week each year is designated as National Hearing Week (May 6-12).

The problem of hearing among children is particularly significant. School and health authorities realize that a hearing defect may not only retard a child's normal progress in school, but it presents a serious problem to the young adult in planning his future. Parents and teachers, because of their daily contact, are in the best position to detect poor hearing in their children, and should be on the alert for the following signs: a listless and wary expression; frequent requests for repetition; mispronunciation of words; turning one ear toward the speaker; inattention, voice or speech peculiarities; continued failure in school grades; failure to respond when questioned; and avoidance of people.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Saf., May 5, 1956 3 B Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. IF YOU DANCE OR PLAY CAMES POORLY, YOU SHOULD TRY TO IMPROVE. FALSE_

Answer to Question 1. RUE. Nothing—and I am speaking scientifically—will improve an awkward, shy person's self-confidence and personality faster and more permanently than dancing and playing competitive games, especially on teams also being in playing competitive games, especially on teams, also being in orchestras. Psychologists who have given personality tests to thousands of youngsters and adults find that playing games and social skills of all sorts make people like and admire you more than anything known.

Is a wrong decision better than none?
Yes— No—
Yes, in most cases. Nothing wears you out as does indecision. Inability to reach positive decisions and actions, even in little things, is one of the first and surest signs of nervous breakdown. Psychologists have breakdown. Psychologists have shown that animals break down nervously when they are placed where they can't decide what to do. The proverbial ass between drained the two haystacks doubtless did pepper.

not starve to death, but went crazy and died in a coma.

If an act makes you feel inspired does this prove it's right?

Yes—No—No.

No. You may give a beggar a dime and go on your way feeling pleased with yourself. However, you have damaged him, confirmed his habits, made others think that's a good way to make a living. You wasted a dime that some organized charitable society could have put into a fund for buying a brace for a crippled child, schoolbooks for some child, or even promoting some scientific research that would benefit the world. Merely feeling we are doing right doesn't prove we are right.

BUSINESS FAILURES CITED BY KEFAUVER

More Small Firms Go Under as Big Ones Profit, He Says.

JACKSONVILLE BEACH Fla., May 5 (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver said last night small business failures have increased 44 per cent since 1952 when the Eisenhower Administration took office.

Kefauver's prepared talk wound up a five-day tour of North Florida—where Adlai Stevenson, his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, is especially strong. Kefauver said he was not cry-and that I have an even chance throughout the state."

Kefauver drew applause at Florida State University at Tallahassee when he told students the Supreme Court decision ending racial segregation in the schools is the "law of the land" and that as President he would have to uphold it.

He said, however, that he thought local officials and district court judges should handle the problems created by the decision. UNTZ TV SERVICE PA. 5-0330

BUS DRIVER THREATENED

WITH SHOTGUN, $28 STOLEN

James C. Goodwin, operator of a Lee avenue Public Service Co. bus, was robbed of $28 last night by two men, one of whom threatened him with a sawed off shotgun as the bus stopped at Twentieth and Carr streets.

Goodwin, who lives at 3735 Hebert street, told police that the men, Negroes, signaled him to stop. One pointed the weapon at him, he reported, and ordered him to "hand over the money." They then ran east in Carr street.

$120,906 TO JEWISH FUND

A total of $120,906 was contributed by 450 women yesterday to the 1956 Jewish Federation Welfare Fund campaign at the annual "High C" luncheon of the federation's Women's Division held in the Chase Club of Hotel Chase.

The $100-a-plate luncheon featured a special concert of music by Jewish composers given by Laclede's "Little Symphony" Orchestra, under conductor Harry Farbman. Other guest artists were jazz singer Frankie Laine and Miss Edith Schiller, St. Louis pianist.

The federation has set a goal for this year's campaign of almost $2,000,000 for 35 Jewish health and welfare agencies and for St. Louis's quota of the Special Emergency United Jewish Appeal Survival Fund.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, May 9—USDA weekly review of the livestock market:

Steers and heifers encountered downward reaction after Monday's irregular gains, choice kinds retaining part of early advances, with lower grades dropping back to steady with the previous Friday. Stocker and feeder steers were steady under small supplies. Cows and buils finished fully steady to strong, vealers and calves strong for the period but showing easiness on kinds below choice in final deals. Tops for week: High choice and prime 1093-1302-b. steers, $21.25: high choice and prime 1093-1302-b. steers, $21.25: high choice and prime 1093-1302-b. steers, $15.50 choice 710-800-b. feeder steers, $15.00 choice 710-800-b. feeder steers, $15.50 choice 710-800

Real Performances in Special Issues and in Those Not Included in Averages.

By ELMER C. WALZER United Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, May 5 (UP)-Stocks advanced during the past week on somewhat heavier trading. The averages were higher with rails at a new high since Oct. 11, 1929, and industrials within five points of their record high. But the real performances were in the special issues and in issues not included in the group making up the averages. The market rose the averages. The market rose sharply on Monday, declined on Tuesday and Wednesday, turning up again in the last

Ing up again the sessions.

Higher appropriations for the armed forces helped issues in the defense group. The highway plan gave road builders and cements a lift. Oils were strong on highly favorable reports and predictions from that industry.

industry.

Talk of a trend toward easter money in the near future helped the market generally. Also there were many favorable predictions made on the industry as a whole from Government and non-government sources.

The Great Lakes, on the other hand, have a constant flow of water toward the Atlantic ocean. Lake Superior has the highest surface level, and it sends water into Lake Huron, Some of Lake Huron's water goes into Lake Michigan, but a vast amount reaches Lake Eric and then Lake Ontario.

ANYONE who wishes to gain an idea of the amount of water which passes eastward through this chain of lakes should look at Niagara Falls. Here you can

A QUESTION about the Great Lakes appears in a letter from Thomas Forkin, who writes:

"One night my dad asked me Why don't the Great Lakes have salt water, the same as the ocean?" I would like to know the answer to that."
Certain inland bodies of water are salty, but here is an important fact: Salt lakes are without rivers which flow away from them.

The Great Lakes, on the other hand, have a constant they do water the great lakes fresh.

The A Lakes without an outlet the brinks of water without the great lakes fresh.

A LAKE without an outlet.
